

Case Study

Henkel currently employs approximately 900 employees in the UK & Ireland across six sites which include manufacturing, packaging, R&D, sales & marketing, customer care, technical assistance and support offices.

The UK and Ireland headquarters are in Hemel Hempstead and in the region there are two Technology Centres of Excellence located in Hemel Hempstead (UK) and Tallaght (Ireland).

Henkel's brands and technologies are used in many different applications and industries, and for many different consumer needs. Henkel is the name behind many well-known brands such as Loctite, Pritt, Sellotape, UniBond, Schwarzkopf, LIVE, got2b, Bloo, Colour Catcher, Dylon Dyes and Jeyes.

“

It's a pleasure working with the team at Think. My expectations were surpassed with the level of attention, responsiveness and quality of candidates that were presented. Having the support of a team that delivers results at speed, follows our complex processes and all with a smile on their faces, has been a great stress reliever in highly intense recruitment instances.

”

Hayley Kent
Recruitment Partner, Henkel

Case Study

Henkel has been working with Think SR on an exclusive basis for 4 years now and Caroline, one of the recruitment partners at Henkel, had the positive feedback below about our service.

Established in 2011, Think Specialist Recruitment provides recruitment support to many local businesses as well as companies in other parts of Hertfordshire, Bedfordshire, Buckinghamshire and other parts of the UK.

Building long term relationships is a key part of our values, which we do by working hard to get to know our clients, their teams and the ethos of their businesses. This valuable time we spend, ensures the candidates we place are a very good fit with the business.

“
My experiences working with Think have been brilliant. The team are very responsive, professional and are great at sourcing good talent.”

Caroline Newbold
Recruitment Partner, Henkel

Our talent is finding yours